Strikes Hit Area Building Projects

Ironworkers, Cement Finishers Off Jobs In Contract Dispute

Ironworkers and cement finishers of two big construction unions went on strike today, affecting thousands of workers in the Madison-St. Clair county area and virtually shutting down several major building projects in the Quad-City area.

The strike was called by the Bridge and Structural Ironworkers Union Local 392 and Cement Finishers Local 90 in a dispute over wage issues in negotiation of a new contract with the Southern Illinois Builders Association, a group of heavy construction contractors, and the Southern Illinois Contractors Association, representing highway and sewer contractors.

Contracts of the contractors and cement finishers locally as well as those of three other large unions that represent workers in a large number of southern Illinois counties, expired at midnight last Thursday.

Only one of the five unions agreed to a new contract last week, the Laborers District Council which is made up of 45 locals in 12 southwestern Illinois counties and includes the Quad-City and Madison county area.

Contract talks between the contractors and representatives of both carpenters unions were scheduled to be resumed this afternoon in the SIBA offices at Belleville.

Immediate effect of the strike in the Quad-City area was a shutdown of the St. Elizabeth Hospital construction project and a shutdown of Federal Aid Route 151 from Pontoon Beach to Nidderhagen avenue in Granite City.

Also discontinued was the final stage of work on Canal.

7 Subdivisions Vote 214-to-1 For Fire District

By an overwhelming vote of 214 "for" to one "against," residents of seven subdivisions voted Saturday to annex to the Long Lake Fire Protection District.

The areas annexed for fire protection by the Long Lake volunteer fire department include Miracle Manor, Wellington Heights, Maryville Heights, Dawn Place, Nameoki Acres, Belvedere Place and Northland subdivision.

The subdivisions, containing an estimated 800 homes, formerly were served by the Granite City department until Nov. 20, 1967, when the city council voted not to send trucks outside the city limits because of the liability and high costs.

With annexation to the Long Lake District, the property owners will pay 10 cents tax per $100 assessed valuation.

Total vote Saturday at the one polling place at Tri-City Glass Co., 4500 Washburn avenue, was 221, with six spoiled ballots to make up the difference of the 214-to-1 tally.

Drainage District Plan is Under Study

GC and Nameoki Twp. Officials Discussing New, Joint District

Formation of a new drainage district that would encompass part of Granite City and areas of Nameoki township subject to flash flooding by heavy rains was considered Thursday night by Granite City and township officials as the most acceptable plan for constructing new storm water drainage facilities throughout the area.

The plan was advanced in a meeting at city hall here between Mayor Donald Partney and representatives of the township.

Sanitary district to discuss the possibility of a joint city-township program for installation of drainage facilities to eliminate flooding in the township and North Granite areas so hard hit by heavy rains in early July.

While no definite action was taken in Thursday's session, township officials said they would study the detailed Granite City sewer program of 1961, which includes full planning for drainage of the area involved, and then meet again with Partney next to decide on further procedure.

Partney pointed out that the city's 1961 drainage plan, contained in a city-wide sewer program that later was rejected by referendum, provides all of the engineering work for facilities necessary to an overall drainage program for the Granite City-Nameoki area.

In addition to Partney, those attending the meeting included Harry Briggs, supervisor of Nameoki township; Charles Hanks, Nameoki township highway commissioner; Nameoki town board members Douglas Teeter, Kenneth Gieson and Robert Beede, and Helen Christich, representing William M. Ebersold, Madison.

2 Venice Men Indicted In Store Burglaries

Clement West, 22, of Venice, was indicted by the Madison county grand jury Friday in two charges of burglary and one charge of arson in connection with break-ins at two Venice grocery stores, one of which was set afire and extensively damaged.

The grand jury also indicted James King, 24, of 99 Weaver street, on a burglary charge. King and West were arrested by Venice police on July 31.

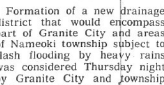

One of the two men had to be routed from the store with tear gas. When arrested, West gave two addresses on Lake street.

County officials said the additional charge of burglary and the arson charge against West was based on the burglary of Baucum's Grocery, 1001 Logan street, nearly two weeks ago.

Burglars apparently set the store on fire when they left, causing $13,000 in damage. Baucum is a Venice city fireman.

Venice Township Tax Payments Total $2,212,893

Venice township's local tax collection period ended Thursday afternoon with total tax payments of $2,212,893, according to Town Collector Frank Reidelberger Jr.

The collection represents 76% of the total tax bill of $2,859,726 charged against Venice township taxpayers. Reidelberger said the total over-the-counter payments will be increased slightly by tax payments sent in by mail that have not yet been tabulated and added to the total.

Most of the payments were received during the last week of collections at the old First National Bank building in Madison. The collection period began June 23. Of the total, slightly more than half was paid by the two principal industries in Venice township, Union Electric Co. and Dow Chemical Co.

Reidelberger said he had no breakdown of personal property and real estate tax payments until the books are balanced. He said his staff will balance the books in preparation for turning them over to the county treasurer's office in Edwardsville where future tax

It is the 14th in a series of breaks which have occurred in Granite City in recent months.

The default today is located on the east side of the lift station in the area. Two previous breaks were on the west side of the lift station.

The break was found at 7:30 a.m. by a crew from the A. H. Seebold Co. which is blacktopping the Nameoki school grounds.

The school firm is carrying out repairs on the sewer breaks on a cost-plus basis. The firm was setting up pumps this morning to clear the water to permit repairs.

Warfield, showing extreme concern over the breaks in the sewer system, said more can be expected.

Mayor Partney last week reported that repairs to date amounted to $34,714.

Breaks last week occurred on Faith avenue between Myrtle and Buxton avenues and on Johnson road near Ames avenue. Repairs have been completed at the Johnson road site and are under way on Faith avenue.

False Alarms

Both police and firemen were summoned about 11:25 p.m. Saturday to a home in the 1900 block of Edwardsville road. Police were called on a prowler complaint and firemen on a false alarm. Officers said the occupants said they had not summoned the departments.

Firemen were called to the city garage when a fire set by workers to burn off a lot went out of control. Firemen were at the scene 20 minutes. There was no damage. Venice firemen also were called at 10:55 p.m. Friday to Logan street, but reported the call was a false alarm.

Even with the "fresh" copy Wednesday night, extensive revisions were made and changes tabulated, so it was not unusual that the final figure determined Thursday afternoon was slightly different than the total announced Wednesday night.

In fact, a number of aldermen fled the recessed budget session before the total was announced.

Not Enough Clubs Preparing Ditty Bags This Year

The current "ditty bag" project may be much smaller than last year unless there is an increased response from Quad-Cities organizations, it was noted today at the office of the Tri-City chapter of the American Red Cross.

Data on preparation of the bags and their contents for forwarding to U.S. servicemen in Vietnam is available at the Red Cross office, 1411 Twenty-first street, 627-7184.

An earlier mailing is necessary this year in order for the Christmas gifts to reach soldiers, sailors, marines and airmen in time for the holidays. This has complicated contacts with local women's groups, many of which do not meet regularly during the summer.

"The bags are to be in the mail for overseas by the end of September," Mrs. Ruby Overbeck, chapter executive secretary, reported. "The response from organizations has been small so far, and we are urging that other interested clubs call our office for details."

Clocks to Cuff Links Collected by Sternbergs on 110,000-Mile Tour, Visiting Optimist Clubs

Granite City PRESS-RECORD

A year of touring—110,000 miles in all—has ended for Gene H. Sternberg, local contractor and retiring president of Optimist International.

Actually, the mileage was covered by Sternberg and his wife, Ruth, in a period of six months as he visited 41 Optimist Districts throughout the United States including the farflung state of Hawaii.

His successor to the international post will be Monroe Marlowe from North Hollywood, Calif., who will assume his official duties on Oct. 1, following his recent election during the Optimist clubs international convention.

Final Tour in West
Proceeding the convention, the traveling president, more his final tour of Districts to include the Pacific Southwest District in Los Angeles, the Nevada District at Las Vegas and to the Southeast Texas District where meetings were conducted in Houston and Galveston.

He returned home for a meeting of the central Illinois District meeting in Belleville, which was attended by 535 people. "We had hoped," Sternberg said, "the largest audience would be in our home district, but we didn't quite make it, as there were 542 who attended a Maryland meeting."

Historical landmarks and gifts, Sternberg recalled, provided "especially interesting trips" to the Tennessee district for a gathering at Chattanooga and going farther north, for a different type of historical background in the New England District. He spoke at Hartford, Conn., and Philadelphia, the latter meeting, covering the Delaware and Eastern Pennsylvania Districts.

Honored at Indianapolis
Sandwiched in between the Tennessee and New England meetings was a trip to Indianapolis, Ind., District where the traveling entourage participated in the annual affair in Indianapolis called "Past President's Day." This area can boast of having two past Optimist International presidents.

Here, the speech, by Sternberg, was made to over 100 persons and he is to receive a giant lighted globe of the world, which is given every Optimist International President who takes part in this special celebration.

The globe is uniquely made by using segments to form the countries of the world. As revisions are made in countries or boundaries are changed, the globe is made in this special celebration.

The trip, which is the experience of a lifetime, was to the Hawaiian Islands. Upon arriving in this island paradise, the visiting president was a little surprised to find that the Optimists were there. Therefore, during the eight-day visit, both Ruth and Gene Sternberg enjoyed themselves and visited the unusual as well as the tourist attractions.

On the Beach of Waikiki
A quiet three days was spent at Waikiki beach on Oahu island. "We sure did enjoy seeing the natives and tourists who very often dressed in matching mau mau and bright shirts, strolling along together. The islanders may think there is too much commercialism here, but we thoroughly enjoyed everything."

"We were much taken by the island ways, and in a way we were hypnotized by the easy way of life on the islands. The countryside can only be described as a South Sea paradise."

While in the Islands, the visitors met with William Morris, a former Granite Cityan, who was engaged in the real estate business with his late father and his brother, Ralph Morris at one time. A pleasant visit.

OPTIMIST INTERNATIONAL PRESIDENT for 1968-69, Gene H. Sternberg holding a picture of Abraham Lincoln, made with a gold wire on velvet and known as heliographic writing. Shown in the upper right hand corner is another gift received from the Pacific Southwest District, a rare Lincoln lithograph from 1860.

was spent with Morris, now known as the "Macadamia Nut King of the World," with his operation of growing and producing this type of nut. Morris also is engaged in operation at a candy company. Several hours were spent in relieving old times in Granite City.

Torch Ceremony
On Maui Island, the mainlanders watched the torch light ceremony at sun down, when a native boy runs down a hill lighting torches on either side of the path, and then dives into the ocean at the conclusion of the ceremony.

The next island visited was Kahoalawe, where the group stayed at a place called the Coco Palms. "It is authentic to a fault, with island streams, huts and coco palm groves. On our next visit to the islands, we plan to spend more time on the island of Hawaii with the capital of Hilo, that is becoming as popular as Honolulu," the local traveler added.

During the Sternbergs' visit to the Pacific Southwest District meeting in Los Angeles, they spent three days for four meetings with an attendance of 1300 Optimists who gathered to hear the Optimist International president speak. This is the largest and strongest District in the Optimist organization, Sternberg pointed out.

Of the two remaining meetings in this area, one was in General Lee's Chinatown, where President Sternberg was presented with a "Japanese Happy Coat." Here, also, the local couple experienced "an outstanding menu of Chinese foods."

Radiologic Technologists Convention Sept. 18-20

The Illinois State Society of Radiologic Technologists will hold the 34th annual meeting, Sept. 18, 19 and 20th at Augustine's Motor Lodge, Belleville. The major important subject on the agenda will be the discussion of state licensure for Radiologic Technologists.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has proclaimed the week of Sept. 14 through 21 as Radiologic Technologists Week as has Mayor Charles E. Nichols of Belleville.

Three-Car Accident

Three autos were involved in a collision about 11 a.m. Friday at Nantmole and Johnson roads. No charges were filed. Police said the drivers were Paul Hancok, 228 Iowa street; John Sulec of Beltline road, who was making a left turn, and William Kosky, 2134 Grand avenue.

in one of several cottages with a house mother and father to provide a home-like atmosphere. The only requirements for the boys there are that they assume some of the chores around the house and attend school regularly.

It was almost a totally working farm, and just recently a gymnasium was built by the Optimists and other civic leaders.

"I was especially impressed with the man and wife who serve as overseers of the whole project," Sternberg said. "They are people totally dedicated to the task they have accepted."

The next stop on the itinerary was in Austin, the capital of Texas, and close to former President Johnson's country. Here a lengthy and leisurely tour of the country side was enjoyed.

Another Souvenir
Gifts presented by the members in this District was to include a silver double headed chafing dish and a framed original architect's elevation to the state house of Texas. The model has already been prominently displayed at the Sternberg home.

The Tennessee District, with a meeting at Chattanooga, proved to be another inspiring trip with such wonderful scenery and historical landmarks in the city of Chattanooga, and Civil War battlefields. Here, a tour of the country side, was a definite requirement for enjoyment.

At this meeting, the Optimist tour official was presented with cuff links bearing the seal of the state of Tennessee.

"Of all the personal mementos we have picked up in our travels, the cuff links with the seal of Chattanooga appealed to me most," Sternberg stated. He went on to explain that while he has received fabulous gifts throughout the year of travel, the cuff links are of historical significance.

"First of all, the story of the railroad engine. The general is a favorite of mine," the Optimist president pointed out.

"The city of Chattanooga and Atlanta are fighting over who should claim the engine, the General, which the North wanted to steal, during the Civil War. The engine is now at Atlanta and a lawsuit is actually in progress to determine who should have the engine," he explained.

Engine in Seal
The Chattanooga seal has a picture of the engine and is transported onto the cuff links which make this gift more appealing. As a family gift, they received an outdoor barbecue grill made in the shape of a railroad engine.

On to the New England District and meetings in Hartford, Conn., where area clubs brought a gift of a book of New England scenes, history and homes. "Very interesting, as well as a real collectors item," Sternberg said.

A visit to the Delaware and Eastern Pennsylvania District took place in Philadelphia, one of the Sternbergs' favorite places. Following the scheduled meetings, both the Sternbergs were presented with pictures that had been beaten into copper with a small amount of color added. An ornate eagle was given to Gene and a floral design to his wife.

This artistic work was done by a past International Optimist director. Other gifts were an automatic mechanical pencil for the president and a charm in the shape of a calendar with a little diamond placed on the date of this visit, to his first lady.

Cub Pack 122 Holds Pinewood Derby

Cub Scout Pack 122, sponsored by Wilson school PTA, held a pinewood family derby Saturday at Wilson Park.

Judges were Jo Hufford and Rick Hufford. Sixteen cars were registered, and the prizes went to Joe Moutria, Keith Moutria and Ricky Curtis, first, second and third speed; Ricky Curtis, Lori Ann Webb and Bert Houston, first, second and third, design.

Hits Parked Auto

A car driven by Frank Brody, 2020 McCasland avenue, was damaged at the left front, and a parked car owned by Earl Hancock, 2025 Beckwith street, were damaged at 3:15 a.m. Friday in an accident on Farish street between McCasland and Beckwith streets, Madison, according to police. Broyles told officers he was driving on Farish when he dropped his glasses. As he retrieved them he turned the steering wheel causing the car to swerve into the Hancock auto.

GRANDFATHER CLOCK, named The President, admired by Mrs. Ruth Sternberg, as a fitting gift to her husband, the retiring president of Optimist International. The clock was completely handmade in the Amana Colony, Amana, Ohio, and was presented by the Optimist International organization.

stated he added, "This committee does not contribute to the monewhall which reaps state treasury. Most of the natives like benefits from the United prefer to keep the situation as it is and are not particularly interested in becoming a state. Others, a minority, encourage statehood, and still another faction is fiercely independent and is more interested in "lifting the island."

Here, the president was presented with a picture of Abraham Lincoln drawn with gold wire on velvet. "The process is known as heliographic writing and makes an outstanding picture," he explained. This special gift will take its place in the Lincoln Room of the Sternberg home.

Happy Remembrances
In his closing remarks on his six months of touring, this city's widely-traveled resident said, "My wife, Ruth and I, have seen many many 'welcome' signs in our travels and met a multitude of very nice people, but on Oct. 1, as the first family of Optimist International, we will be happy to step down."

"Our experiences are something that money can't buy, and we feel we have been privileged to travel over the United States, Canada, Hawaii and Puerto Rico and say, 'I bring you greetings from the little Pittsburgh of the middle west—the speech center of the United States of America and the home of Optimism on the march—Granite City, Ill.'"

To each retiring president, the Optimist International presents a special gift to the first family. To the Sternbergs, an outstanding Grandfather clock, named The President, was their selection. The clock was made in the Amana Colony, Amana, Ohio, where the craftsmen select each piece of wood to be used in the particular piece of furniture and create the piece in its entirety.

Rare Blooming Plant At Home in Mitchell

Mrs. Grace Peach of 135 Kinder lane has had a sansevieria plant, commonly known as the mother-in-law tongue plant, for 20 years and the plant bloomed for the first time last week.

The plant is also known by other names such as bowstring hemp, snake plant and leopard lily. A tender perennial with stiff erect leaves about two feet long, the present species is typical of many others used as ornamental house plants.

It is said that only a florist can kill a sansevieria. It was stand more neglect than almost any other plant, but overwatering is harmful.

Not everybody, however, is aware that the plant has flowers. They are born in spikes on tall leafless stalks and are greenish-white or pale yellow in color, usually appearing some time in August. Before flowering, the plant must be well established and its roots cramped in the container. Plants which are not pot bound seldom blossom.

This particular type of house plant originates in India and Africa. They may be divided into two classes — the bird's nest types which form low (8 inches), neat compact rosettes of foliage and the tall kind (to 5 foot), whose leaves stand erect from the soil surface.

Grayson-Gunderson Vows At Ist Presbyterian Church

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Elaine Ann Gunderson and Robert Raymond Grayson Jr., in a ceremony taking place Saturday evening at First United Presbyterian Church.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Gunderson, 2511 Morrison road. Mr. Grayson's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Grayson, 3102 Day drive.

Rev. Dr. David Maxton officiated at the 7 o'clock service before the altar simply decorated with arrangements of yellow gladioli and white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Isabel Schmidt, organist and Donald Gunderson, a cousin of the bride, vocalist, provided a program of wedding music. The songs were "Wedding Prayer," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride wore a gown of white tulle with sheer sleeves, featuring an Empire waistline accented with sequins. The A-line skirt extended into a full back and a lace chapel train. A double floral headpiece of lace and tulle petals secured the bride's tiered nylon veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of Elegance carnations centered with an orchid corsage. Mr. Gunderson gave his daughter in marriage.

Mrs. Merle McDaniel Jr. was honor attendant, and Mrs. Dan Murphy and Mrs. Dennis Gordon served as bridesmaids. Lace also trimmed the flowing panels in the back, and headpieces were matching fabric bows securing tiered veils. Mrs. McDaniel was in yellow with a bouquet of green tinted daisies, while the bridesmaids wore mint green and carried yellow daisies.

A little flower girl, Sharon Ann Lane, a niece of the bridegroom, dressed like the bridesmaids, carried a basket of rose petals. Eric Gunderson, the bride's nephew, was ring bearer.

The bridegroom chose his brother-in-law, Gordon Lane, as best man, and groomsmen and ushers included Loyal Gunderson, a brother of the bride, Ben Hildebrand, Eugene Gunderson, another brother-in-law, and Leroy Taylor. Candlelighters were Diane Meredith and Debbie Johnson.

12-Year History of Sky Steelers is Recalled

By JOHN BLUM
President, Tri-City Sky Steelers

(Third of a Series)

You hear the sound of an engine and stop to watch model airplanes in flight. Maybe you notice an evening flying session at Coolidge Junior high school, or you awaken from a Sunday afternoon nap due to the buzz of an engine in the distance.

Chances are that it is a practice flying session on an intracub or inter-club contest involving the Tri-City Sky Steelers Model Airplane Club.

The activity is varied. You may see two models moving in the same circle, with a strip of crepe paper attached to each miniature aircraft. Each pilot seems determined to "destroy" the other plane by destroying the paper trailing behind it.

Or you may see a model take off and, after two laps, plop up a bit of grass. Or the graceful flight of a hand-launched glider. Or the stunt flying of semi-scale models. Or the realistic flight of a simulated world war II biplane.

The practice and competition do not just happen but are the result of planning and organizational work. The flying itself is only a small part of the total picture.

The basic organizational structure parallels that of many organizations—a national group, a district association and a local club. All have evolved over the years basically for strength in numbers.

While most model aviation enthusiasts are and will remain hobbyists and "Sunday only flyers," they, too, need organization and form together into clubs to obtain the benefits of publicity, flying sites, interesting modeling programs and technical advice.

Local Club Established
In 1957, several model aviation builders and flyers set out to form the Tri-City Sky Steelers club in Granite City.

With the assistance of a local hobby shop, the YMCA director, the Press-Record and the Day-Break Optimist club, the group of modelers put together what has developed into the active and successful model airplane club in central and southern Illinois.

The Sky Steelers' first program in 1957 had the multiple purposes of acquiring members, publicizing their activities and training and instructing novice modelers. This plan still remains the most important of the club's activities.

Although the main interest of the club evolves from control-line flying, several models which are active in the free flight and radio control phases of the hobby but still fly control-line as well.

Consequently, interested individuals can obtain instruction in almost all phases, regardless of their interest level.

Membership rose to more than 40 during the first years of organization. This attracted a large meeting place for the club to carry out its goals.

The Sky Steelers worked out a program with the Tri-City YMCA to offer and teach courses and programs which included model building, flight instruction and indoor model flying in the "Y" gymnasium.

Perhaps the most productive program was the Twilight Optimist sponsored courses in the building and flying of gas-powered models for boys and girls under 16 years of age, with instructions by Sky Steelers members. Many of these models were exhibited at the annual YMCA open house.

Competitive Spirit Grows
It wasn't long afterward that Sky Steelers members began to develop a competitive feeling and began to organize both building and flying competition within the club.

Members next began to enjoy glider contests, both indoors and outdoors, gas model competition in events such as heat racing, combat and stunt flying, and building contests in which members constructed models during the winter months and presented them at a spring show in the YMCA for judging on appearance and workmanship.

Confidence, developed through these accomplishments, guided many into more serious competition on local and national levels. The first TCSS member to enter sanctioned competition was Andy Gonzalez, Dennis Meyer, Robert Meyer and Mitchell Blum, to name a few.

National wins in scale competition by members Howard Owen and in 1959 and Frank Beatty in 1968.

Recognition for past member Warren MacZura, whose model won first place in international competition at Swindby, England in 1966.

How to Be a Winner
These accomplishments came as a result of the most important phase of the hobby, sport flying. This is the evening and Sunday activity which offers the most fun for modelers in a related atmosphere.

Here the modeler tries his skill and tests the performance and construction of his equipment.

There is where the model club member receives the most direct benefit of his membership—the sharing of experiences, the fellowship of persons with similar interests, the opportunity to learn from others and the same opportunities, and above all a chance to enjoy themselves.

The above doesn't happen without model participation in other facets of the hobby and local modelers also have achievements in these aspects.

Members Howard Owen and Henry Goetz served as judges in the annual national championships in Philadelphia two weeks ago. Frank Beatty and John Blum have had numerous articles published in model magazines, and other members participate in the operation of area and national organizations.

Safe Flying First Goal
The club feels it must share the responsibility of promoting responsible model aviation activities. Thus, each member belongs to the Academy of Model Aeronautics, in which a TCSS member serves as associate vice-president.

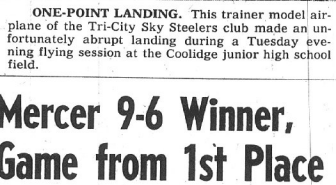

This is a 25,000 member organization of enthusiasts involving all facets of the hobby. It serves to develop rules and records, sanction competition, offers a means and guidance for public relations programs and national publicity, and represents the hobby within governmental agencies.

Holding a charter through the AMA means more representation, news, and liability insurance for TCSS members.

Since its organization in 1958, the Academy has promoted educational programs, scholarships and a means to complete internationally.

Of equal importance is the Sky Steelers' membership and participation in activities of the Greater St. Louis Modeling Association.

Mercer's trimmed Granite City Steel Credit Union 8-6 in Wilson Park Sunday, remaining in third place but moving to within one game of the lead.

Other Inter-City Baseball League action saw Collinsville post Pochonates 6-3 to take over first place and East Alton shade Maryville 4-3 to stay within a half-game of Mercer.

Mercer's Jim Becker and sixth inning reliever Don Rains forced CU to eight hits. Mercer pounded 18 hits off Steve Lenoir.

CU opened the game with two runs. Greg Patton doubled, Bennie Smith walked and Roger Coakley singled in a run. Larry Dillard forced Coakley at second, Arvil Taylor walked to lead the bases and Ron Laws walked to force in a run.

Mercer scored the second, Larry Corey walking and advancing to third on a throwing error and later Walter Schmidt singled.

Fleet Base Running
In the third, Mercer tallied two more runs. Becker singled and Bob Ketterer forced Becker, stole second and crossed the plate on Harold Tankley's single. Tankley went to second.

Clark's Vikings, defending state slow-pitch softball champs, won two of three games in weekend state play at Champaign and Urbana. Also returning for tourney play this weekend will be Kewanee, winner of three of its four starts in the double-elimination meet. The third Granite City team, Mexican Honorary Commission, was eliminated with a 3-2 win-loss record.

Weekly Session
The many activities of the Sky Steelers are concentrated presently in the Tuesday evening flying sessions at the Coolidge Junior high school athletic field and the annual regional model airplane contest. The weekly practice sessions have been well attended and are aimed at sport flying and the instruction of new flyers.

Through a dual-control system, any novice can safely learn to fly in one or two evenings, with the club furnishing the trainer plane.

Since they first sponsored competition in 1958, the Sky Steelers continue to offer high caliber model contests.

Plans and proposals for the future include intra-club building and flying sessions and contests, membership programs and training, continuation of a monthly publication known as the "Bulletin," which has covered area activity since 1958, static displays and challenging membership programs.

A business meeting, followed by a program, is held once a month in a member's home.

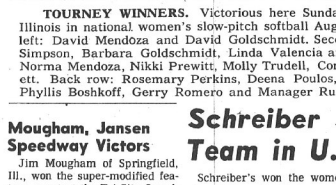

The club feels it must share the responsibility of promoting responsible model aviation activities. Thus, each member belongs to the Academy of Model Aeronautics, in which a TCSS member serves as associate vice-president.

This is a 25,000 member organization of enthusiasts involving all facets of the hobby. It serves to develop rules and records, sanction competition, offers a means and guidance for public relations programs and national publicity, and represents the hobby within governmental agencies.

Fielding Miscues Plague 3 Squads
Women's slow-pitch softball action saw Schreiber's Lettering win over Clark's Hardacing 15-0, Kentucky Fried Chicken over Tony's 11-0 and Mercer over Vaughn Pharmacy 10-7 Thursday at Wilson Park.

Schreiber's won with 15 hits and no errors to Clark's 10 hits and nine errors. Joan Minnick and Deena Poulos homered.

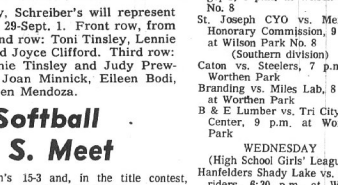

Untimely errors by Tony's gave the game to Kentucky despite Vaughn's lesser total of hits. Millie Stark homered twice and Lynn Shepard batted .45.

Vaughn's volume of 15 errors donated the game to Mercer. Cheryl Anderson and Pat Hoffstad homered.

Collinsville Wins; In Ill. Legion Meet
Madison's Don Bunk pitched a no-hitter to help steer Collinsville's 7-0 victory over Chicago in American Legion junior baseball playoffs during the weekend at Collinsville.

He blanked Carbonade without a hit in a 10-0 run in first-round action Thursday. The winners crossed the plate 13 times in the sixth inning, in which Jerry Pitcher hit a grand slam.

Collinsville won the title Sunday by defeating previously unbeaten Carley twice, 5-3 and 15-7. The sweep ran Collinsville's record to 23-2 for the season.

The winners had advanced to the finals by defeating defending champion Bellevue 5-2 Saturday night.

Bunk was the winner in the first game yesterday and was aided by round-trippers by Bill Thomas and Bill Stricker.

Camp won the nightcap with the aid of homers by Jerry Sonnenberg and Jerry Pitcher.

Collinsville will open the state tournament at 8 p.m. Thursday at Benton against a team from the Chicago area.

27th Widening Appears to Dim Parkway Outlook

Park district permission was not involved in the widening of 27th street between State street and Grand avenue because the extra seven-foot width of the paving apparently is on the city's right-of-way for the street, it was learned late last week.

When the possibility of Granite City park district approval was raised in a telephone call from an engineer to a park officer, the engineer was asked to wait until a map of the property could be viewed. However, a second call the same day advised the park district that part of the concrete was being poured.

Although a wider street surface is considered helpful from a traffic standpoint, the procedure followed seems to make less likely the extension of the Benton-to-State streets parkway. This is because the new pavement is in the area that would have become a surface parkway of grass and shrubs separating westbound and eastbound lanes.

The paving has raised the question of whether the park district should continue to retain its property immediately north of 27th street, owned for a number of years in the expectation that the parkway someday could be extended east of State street.

The park lots extend for 55 feet north of 27th street between State street and Grand avenue and between Grand and the next alley. From the alley to Madison avenue, a wider strip of land is owned by the park district.

Lloyd H. Rider, 52, Stricken on Job, Dies

Lloyd H. Rider, 52, of 2312 Kirkpatrick Homes, a lifelong resident of Granite City, was pronounced dead upon arrival at 2 p.m. Sunday at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

A self-employed painter, he was working on a house in the Horseshoe Lake area when he collapsed and was taken to the hospital by ambulance. An inquest will be conducted by Robert Thomas, Madison County coroner to determine the cause of death.

Mr. Rider had served with the U. S. Army during world war II and was a member of the local Painters Union.

He is survived by one son, Lloyd Rider Jr., and his mother, Mrs. Hattie Rider both of Granite City; two brothers, Jerome Rider of Granite City and Bowlers Rider of Edgmont, Ill., and a sister, Mrs. Verna Mae Gentry of Bloomington, Ill.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Guy's & Dolls' Tickets

Three tickets remain for the Granite City park district sponsored trip tomorrow evening to "Guy's and Dolls" at the St. Louis Muny Opera in Forest Park. It was announced today by Harold Brown, park superintendent. The tickets may be obtained at the Wilson Park office, he said.

At one time, it was proposed to extend the 27th parkway to Nameoki road in the neighborhood of Terminal avenue, affording a scenic, divided street, greater traffic safety, and improved access for motorists to Wilson Park.

Monken Family Coming Home from Japan Tour

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Monken, 2301 Lee avenue, received a long-awaited transoceanic phone call at 8:15 a.m. today from their son, George N. Monken, stationed on Hokkaido island in northern Japan, informing the parents the serviceman, his wife, Vicki, and their nine-month-old son, Christopher, will arrive in the U.S. on Aug. 12 and in Granite City one week later.

The soldier, who made the call home early Monday evening—Japan time—also reported his promotion to a Specialist Six rating, equivalent to first sergeant.

He has been serving with the Army Security Division at a U.S. military installation at Choshi on Hokkaido Island for the past three years.

A 1961 graduate of Granite City high school, Sp/6 Monken enlisted in the Army in December 1965. He and the former Miss Vicki Shuk of Kokomo, Ind., were married in March 1966. His wife joined him in Japan more than two years ago and their infant son was born at a military hospital there last October 19.

The serviceman is expected to spend the next six months at Fort Meade, Md., his parents reported.

Drainage

county member of the levee district board of trustees.

Partney pointed out that he was informed during a recent interview with HUD officials in Chicago that funds are unavailable for any new projects this year, but will be available during the 1970 fiscal year. Briggs noted that it would take until early next year to complete the planning necessary to any project the group may decide to undertake.

Partney also brought out that he had been informed that the levee district would be the only political agency eligible for funds to build drainage facilities in the area. The levee district is broke, financially, however, and could not provide matching funds necessary to a federal grant.

Both the mayor and Briggs expressed the belief this would not be the case if a new drainage district were formed to include the combined Granite City-Nameoki township area in the drainage facilities.

Now inadequate, the most heavily affected areas include the Lynch avenue-Vest street section of Granite City and the New Haven and Breckenridge lane-Division street sections of Nameoki township.

May Need Bond Issue

The possibility of a bond issue to provide matching funds for a drainage project also was discussed. In such case repayment of the bonds would become the responsibility of residents living within the boundaries of any district that might be formed.

Just where the levee district would fit into the picture was unanswered, since Ebersold, who has spearheaded a move for more adequate drainage throughout the area, was unable to attend the meeting.

The proposal to establish a new drainage district also initiates the question of legality of establishing one drainage district within another, but these problems are expected to be discussed in later sessions. Both Granite City and Nameoki township now lie within the levee district.

Traffic Toll Soars with Nine Fatalities

Nine traffic fatalities in the Quad-City area during July equaled the total number of fatalities for all six months in the first half of the year and wiped out the only impressive gains in an otherwise deteriorating traffic accident record for 1969, a compilation of accident statistics reported by Quad-City authorities showed today.

With the number of accidents and the number of accident injuries showing steady gains since the first of this year, compared to like periods of 1968, a substantial reduction in the number of traffic fatalities was noted at the end of June, marking the first half of the current year. The number of fatalities at that time stood at nine, compared to 23 reported during the first half of last year.

The nine July fatalities brought this year's total to 18, compared to 25 traffic deaths for the seven months of last year.

This, in one month, the area's traffic fatality record increased from 39% of the previous year's rate at the end of June to 76% of the 1968 fatality rate by the end of July.

Accident Ratio High
At the same time, the number of July accidents as well as the number of persons injured in those mishaps continued to maintain the same high ratio as that of every other month of 1969. A total of 222 accidents was reported in July, with 126 persons injured.

In comparison, there were 162 accidents reported in July 1968, with 94 persons injured. The July traffic toll showed little change from the similarly high ratios of previous months: 228 accidents and 122 injured in June, 229 accidents and 132 hurt in May, and 241 accidents and 125 injured in April.

The July statistics increased to 162 the total number of traffic accidents so far this year, and to 811 the total number of persons injured.

This represents a 17% increase over the seven-month total of 1394 accidents occurring in the same period of a year ago. This year's total of 811 persons injured thus far is an increase of 31 injury cases over the same seven-month period of 1968.

The number of accidents has exceeded the 200 mark for every month of this year, compared to only five months in 1968 in which more than 200 accidents were recorded. Statistics showed the steady growth in the number of accidents for the first seven-month period dates back to 1963 when a total of 957 accidents was reported for the seven months, with 444 persons injured.

Prior Years Compared
During the first seven months of 1964 a total of 1284 accidents, with 642 injuries, occurred, and in the same period of 1965 there were 1262 accidents with 573 injuries. The same period of 1966 had 1333 accidents and 773 injuries, while in 1967 there were 154 accidents with 764 injuries.

With only one exception the fatalities reported during July resulted from accidents occurring on highways or in suburban areas of the Quad-Cities. The lone exception was a pedestrian fatality on McCambridge avenue in Madison, month this year, indicating the number of accidents, the number of injuries and fatalities, in that order, are:

January, 215-116-4; February, 202-83-1; March, 226-108-1; April, 241-125-0; May, 228-132-0; June, 228-122-3; July, 222-125-9.

Wagner Bottling Will Be Sold to St. Louis Firm

Seven-Up Bottling Co. of St. Louis has agreed to acquire the Wagner Seven-Up Bottling Co. of Madison for an undisclosed amount of cash.

Effective date of the transaction will be on or before Sept. 25. William L. Harris, president of Wagner Seven-Up, will join the Seven-Up Bottling Co. of St. Louis and supervise the new territory.

Thomas A. Taylor, president of the St. Louis firm, estimates that the addition of 10 1/2 Illinois counties with a population of over 700,000 will add 22.5% to the company's annual volume and add substantially to Seven-Up's St. Louis net profits.

The Wagner area includes Madison and St. Clair counties, part of the bi-state metropolitan area. Seven-Up Bottling Co. of St. Louis also operates production facilities in Moberly and Cape Girardeau, Mo., and 22 warehouses in eastern Missouri and southern Illinois as far south as Cairo.

Taylor indicated that it would take several months before the reorganization will be complete. The acquisition will raise the population served by St. Louis Seven-Up to over 3.7 million people with 81 route salesmen and 30 management and supervisory personnel.

The latest acquisition follows purchase of the Quincy Seven-Up Bottling Co. in June 1968. Taylor said the acquisition is an additional step toward his company's growth through acquisitions in the soft drink field as well as non-related industries. The company plans to announce other expansion plans in the near future.

Scottish Rite Plans $1,000,000 Cathedral

A chairman for a fund drive to raise $1,000,000 for a new Scottish Rite Cathedral was named this week and will be Robert B. Perkins of Belleville, who said he will be naming the cathedral chairmen in the near future.

Funds are expected to be raised from more than 8700 members who comprise the Scottish Rite Bodies, Valley of Southern Illinois.

A new cathedral will be constructed at North 57th street and Highway 161 in Belleville. Plans call for a 1200-seat auditorium and a 1200-seat dining room with office space, meeting rooms and parking facilities for 400 cars.

The present Scottish Rite Temple located at 575 North Fourteenth street, East St. Louis, built in 1911, does not provide for the proper and adequate facilities needed now.

Perkins received his Master Mason degree in March, 1952, and since then has held many elective offices both as a Mason and as a member in the Scottish Rite Bodies.

He received his thirty-third degree in 1958 at Pittsburgh, Pa., and is past Thrice Potent Master, St. Clair Lodge of Perfection and a past Most Wise Master, John M. Pearson Chapter of Rose Croix.

Presently he is serving as second lieutenant commander, Conventry and as a member on the board of directors at Memorial Hospital in Belleville.

The campaign office for the building fund are located at 9 North First street, Belleville, and were opened this week.

Perkins said the $1,000,000 campaign are the Hanley Associates, Inc., West Concord, Mass.

Optimists Club Views Slides of Cuban Tour

Rev. Jesse H. Roberts, pastor of Niedringhaus United Methodist Church, provided the program for the Granite City Optimist Club Thursday afternoon at the Rose Bowl.

He showed slides of Cuba taken when he accompanied a group of young people on a tour of Methodist missionary installations in Cuba, several years ago.

Fred Cunningham, president, presided at the business session which was attended by 25 members.

Don Z. Farrington, chairman of the committee making arrangements for the annual installation of officers, announced the date is set for Sept. 13. More information will be available at a later meeting.

$15,000 Suit Filed

A dram shop suit for $15,000 was filed last week for Kay Handon against James Broshaw, doing business as the Nabors-Hood liquor store, and Harold E. Mainer, owner of the property, in Madison circuit court. The complaint alleges that Handon was beaten by Alroy Gracey, who had become intoxicated in the tavern last April 4.

Local National Guardsmen Training at Camp McCoy, Wis.

Guardsmen from Granite City and other local area communities unpacked their pup tents and took to the field last week to begin their annual two-week summer training session, at Camp McCoy, Wis.

The men staged on bivouac until Thursday afternoon. Before returning to their barracks in the main part of Camp McCoy, they will have undergone training in range firing, reconnaissance, offensive and defensive maneuvers and other military tactics.

The first week's activities climaxed on Saturday with a parade in which most of the 5000 Illinois Guardsmen now at camp took part. Gov. Richard Ogilvie attended the parade.

More training will take place this week before the men return home on Friday.

One of the units in the field this week has been Headquarters Co., 3rd Battalion, 130th Infantry, which is based in East St. Louis and includes a number of men from Granite City.

Many of the men have military specialties that tie in closely with their civilian jobs, but some do not.

One who doesn't is Gary Thornsberry of 2468 Waterman avenue. In civilian life he is an accountant with Mallinckrodt Chemical Co., but in the Guard he is on a squad that fires mortars, a far cry from books and ledgers.

He says, however, that he doesn't mind the change.

"I sort of enjoy it," Pvt. Thornsberry said. "Of course, Mallinckrodt gives me two weeks' vacation besides this and they make up the difference between my regular pay and what I'm getting here. So I don't have any complaints."

"The only thing I don't like is the mosquitoes," he stated. "We have been using lots of bug spray."

The mosquitoes are plentiful in the field, and have already given rise to small legends, he added.

"The other day, I saw two of them so big they were trying to carry the mortar away," joked Sergeant Kenneth J. Fowler of 2131 Illinois avenue, a mortar squad leader.

But mosquitoes or not, the job gets done, as the Guardsmen were talking, a voice suddenly commanded, "Fire."

$90,000 Suit Filed Over Crash into Home

A suit for a total of $90,000 was filed last week for Tina and Kay Browning, daughters of David and Diana Browning, and for the parents, against John M. Harris Jr. of Granite City, Madison county circuit court at Edwardsville.

The complaint alleges that the two children were injured while asleep when an auto driven by Harris struck and demolished the Browning home at 2161 Miracle avenue last June 25.

The suit seeks $40,000 for injuries sustained for each of the children plus $5000 to cover medical expenses for each of the children.

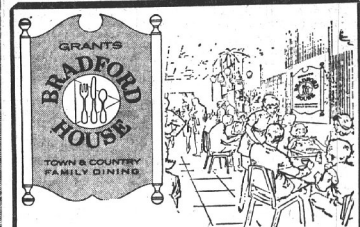

ILLINOIS NATIONAL GUARDSMEN taking part in a two-week summer training session at Camp McCoy, Wis. Three Granite Cityans join a guardsman from Collinsville, in checking out a mortar during the first phase of their current training. They are, left to right—Sgt. Gary K. Sp5 Worley enlisted in the Army in Sept., 1967 and completed basic training at Ft. Bliss, Tex., and was stationed at Ft. Campbell, Ky., before arriving overseas in July 1968. After his leave at home he will report to Fort Riley, Kans., to complete the final year of his enlistment.

Incineration Cuts Refuse Volume by 90%

(Eleventh of a series)

Refuse incineration consists of the controlled burning of mixed refuse so as to produce a sanitary and inoffensive residue, Horner & Shifrin, consulting engineers, have noted in evaluating the solid waste disposal outlook for Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties.

Well-designed and operated burning facilities result in an essentially nuisance-free operation in that odors, smoke and dust constitute no significant problems.

Incinerator residue, usually 25% to 30% by weight of the raw refuse, is equivalent to only 5% to 10% of the volume of raw refuse.

For example, assuming refuse density of 500 pounds per cubic yard, with 25% of the weight remaining as residue and a compacted residue density of 65 pounds per cubic foot, the residue would be 7% by volume of the raw refuse delivered to the incinerator.

Fill Without Earth Cover
Residue occupies about one-tenth of the volume of land-filled refuse. If complete burn-out is achieved, it can be deposited as fill material without subsequent earth cover.

It normally is advisable, however, to have sanitary landfill facilities available for the disposal of the residue along with these materials which cannot properly be processed through an incinerator.

There are many municipal incinerators constructed in built-up areas and, in some cases, adjacent to residential developments. But it is advisable to locate such facilities in areas zoned for industry or remote enough to minimize potential objections by neighboring property owners.

The most ideal site economically is near the center of the production and adjacent to an area suitable to receive the residue as fill.

Easy to Haul Residue
Since the residue is only a small fraction of the refuse, it can be hauled a considerable distance if necessary without excessive extra cost.

Therefore, it is more important from an economic standpoint that incinerators be located to the center of refuse production.

tion than to the point of residue disposal.

Final site selection, because of the relatively small land area required, may be controlled by factors other than those of an economic nature. Aesthetics, or even political expediency, have been known to receive primary consideration in incinerator site selection.

Landscaping of Site
Without considering the area needed for residue disposal, minimum area for a 500-ton-per-day incinerator is five to six acres. It would be desirable to have 20 to 30 acres in order to include planting and landscaping.

It is necessary that refuse disposal methods provide maximum reliability to prevent excessive accumulation of raw refuse.

Emergencies may occur due to unusually high short-term refuse production or due to holidays, hauling interruptions or malfunction of disposal facilities.

Greatest reliability is achieved by providing flexibility in the disposal system.

Extra Space for Storage
Since incinerators must be designed with relatively fixed capacity limits, their planning must include provisions for flexibility—such as adequate refuse receiving and storage space, some excess burning capacity, multiple burning units whether in one or several plants, and equipment requiring minimum maintenance.

Modern incinerators are comprised of units to accommodate the functions of raw refuse handling, combustion, residue and ash handling, and air pollution control in accord with applicable laws and ordinances.

Control Combustion Rate
2. Combustion equipment includes furnaces equipped with gas systems which move burning refuse through the furnace, fans to provide combustion air and provisions for controlling rate and condition of combustion.

3. Ash and residue handling equipment includes provision for quenching the residue discharged from the grates and for conveying residue and materials sifting through the grates to trucks for hauling to points of final disposal.

4. Air pollution control equipment consists of devices to remove particulate matter from combustion gases before they are discharged to the atmosphere.

Unfavorable Cost
Incinerators are expensive to construct, operate and maintain, Horner & Shifrin note.

Even though they can be provided with devices to meet air pollution control law requirements, they still will discharge small quantities of particulate materials into the atmosphere.

Their capacities are fixed, in that they usually can accommodate only relatively small volumes over their nominal design capacities.

One of their principal advantages is their ability to effect the greatest volume reduction in raw refuse of any of the presently accepted disposal methods.

They can be built on small sites and located to effect greater efficiency in hauling. The residue, when adequately burned out, makes a dense fill material.

Alternative to Landfill
The process, as a result, has been adopted by many cities and metropolitan areas for refuse disposal when available sanitary landfill sites are exhausted or where the public authorities are reluctant to establish new sanitary landfill sites.

Waste heat from refuse incinerator furnaces has been recovered in several installations with varying success.

In such cases, waste heat boilers are installed for steam generation. The boilers also serve to cool combustion gases and therefore may be used to some advantage to protect fabricated air pollution control equipment, such as cyclones and electrostatic precipitators.

Unless a ready market exists for the steam produced by the heat boiler, it is hard to justify the big increase in both capital and operating costs entailed in providing the boilers, since the internal heating and power requirements of an incinerator are not normally great enough to warrant the additional expense.

Auxiliary Fuel System
Also, because of the variability in quantity and heat value of municipal refuse, it would be almost mandatory to provide an auxiliary fuel system, either oil or gas, to ensure reliability of steam quantity and pressure for a constant load.

Existing incinerator plants equipped with waste heat boilers generally are troubled with additional maintenance. Production of steam requires high temperatures for the reaction to take place in the furnace resulting in excessive slagging.

Some of the components of refuse evolve corrosive gases when burned; this may create boiler tube corrosion problems. Compared to the large-scale utility boilers currently supplying power to this metropolitan area, the steam-generating capacity of a normal refuse incinerator would not be significant.

It may be reasonably concluded that there would be more potential disadvantages than advantages in installing waste heat boilers in incinerators for the Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties areas.

Ring Leader Pleads Innocent to Charges

A plea of innocent was submitted by Charles "Weed" Jeffries, 22, leader of the East St. Louis War Lords, to charges of attempted murder and aggravated battery during an arraignment last week in Madison county circuit court.

He and Walter Lockett, also of East St. Louis, were indicted in connection with the shooting of Jeffrey Greer Jr., 23, of Chicago, who was shot five times last Nov. 9 and dumped into a ditch near Madison.

Also arraigned was Robert Bridges, 23, of East Alton, who was one of five prisoners who escaped from the county jail at Edwardsville last July 18. He pleaded innocent to two armed robbery indictments and one armed escape.

Bridges, who was a trusty awaiting trial on a charge of aggravated battery, and the other four were captured in Toledo, O. The other four are being held there for trial on armed robbery charges.

Arraignment was continued (for Ronald Hayden, 26, of East St. Louis, charged with reckless homicide in connection with the death of a Glen Carbon woman in a five-vehicle accident on July 24 at Peters Station. He is in Wood River Township Hospital with burns sustained in the crash.

4 Registration Centers Scheduled This Weekend

Four special registration centers will be conducted in the Quad-City area Friday and Saturday to register new voters and correct existing registration records for those who wish to vote in the Sept. 23 primary for nomination of four delegates to the Illinois Constitutional Convention.

The registration centers are being conducted by the office of County Clerk Eulalia Hotz which has announced an Aug. 22 deadline for registration for the con-con delegate primary. Five special registration centers were conducted in the area during the past weekend.

Those scheduled later this week include:

Granite City—Tri-City Bellemore Village center, Friday, 1 to 8 p.m., and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Madison—Schermmer Market, 12th street and Madison avenue, Saturday 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Pontoon Beach—Ace Hardware, 4019 Pontoon road, Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Venice—Tri-City Grocery, 400 Broadway, Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Deputy registrars at the centers will accept new registrations from persons who will become qualified to vote by the Sept. 23 election date. Those who may register are persons who will be 21 years of age on or before Sept. 23, are citizens of the United States and who have lived in the state one year, the county 90 days and the precinct 30 days.

Record changes also will be accepted from persons who have changed their addresses since the last election.

Address changes also may be made directly to the county clerk's office by noting the address change on the back of the voter registration certificate (pink card) and mailing it to Miss Hotz's office at the court-house in Edwardsville. Miss Hotz said that those persons who do not have a pink voter identification card should check with her office to determine if they are properly registered.

Nine candidates will seek the four nominations as constitutional convention delegates in the Sept. 23 primary election in the 33rd senatorial district which is made up of Granite City, Venice, Nameoki and Chouteau townships in the Quad-City area and six other Madison county townships.

From the four candidates nominated in the primary, voters of the district will elect two delegates in a runoff election Nov. 18. Two delegates are to be elected from each of the

Madison Man Among Escapees at Macoupin

A West Madison man was one of four prisoners who escaped from the Macoupin county jail at Carlinville last week and was still at large.

He is Tommy Lee Jones, 27, who was being held on theft charges. He also is one of eight men who were arrested last Nov. 1 in connection with the theft of colored television sets and a stereo phonograph set from a box car in the Illinois Terminal Railroad yards near Eagle Park Acres.

Other escapees were James Young, 22, of Cantrill, Ill.; Danny Cooper, 17, of Muncie, Ind.; and Richard Lee Cundiff, 17, of New Albany, Ind.

Cooper and Cundiff were captured Thursday when several persons at an Assembly of God Bible camp four miles south of Carlinville spotted them running into a bean field.

The prisoners had fashioned ice picks out of coat hangers and threatened to kill jailer George O'Neill, who was ambushed. He was locked in a cell.

Extra Levee District Flood Cost $56,386

Last month's heavy rains that sent drainage ditches pouring over their banks and flooded low-level areas cost the East Side Levee and Sanitary district $56,386 in emergency expenses, of which $20,826 was spent in Madison county, according to a report prepared by William "Mike" Ebersold, Madison county member of the levee district's board of trustees.

The added cost comes at a time when the district is unable to meet the bills because of a bank balance of only $9800 as of July 30, the report shows. The district also is within $70,000 of its limit in sale of anticipation warrants for the current year, which leaves the district an overall balance of only $79,900 for all operating costs until new tax funds are received.

Even so, Ebersold said, first tax monies distributed by the district by tax collectors of Madison and St. Clair counties must be used to redeem tax anticipation warrants which will total $370,000. Distribution of tax funds from township collectors of Venice, Chouteau, Nameoki and Granite City are expected this month.

For Dobby Slough Emergency expenditures for flood work in Madison county services to equipment in both were required primarily for pumping Dobby slough which ran out of its banks in the New Haven area and caused a back-up of stormwater drainage in the Cloverview area.

Ebersold's report showed that claims for $15,589 have been filed by A. H. Seebold Co. which was contracted for pumping work at the peak of the flood emergency. Delivery and rental of pipe cost $2354 while spraying for mosquitoes in the flood area and along Nameoki drainage canal cost $1119. Extra labor in overtime amounted to $1557 and other smaller claims include one from Robertsons Farm Supply for $157 for a small pump and one from Houser Auto for pump supplies amounting to $47.

The balance of $33,560 in emergency expenditures also included costs incurred in the Madison county flood fight along with overall costs of emergency work in St. Clair County. These cannot be separated for each county, however, since the costs are combined in a district-wide power bill of $10,000 by Union Electric Co. and an Illinois Power Co. bill of $859.

In addition, a claim of A-Age Electric Co. for repairs on motors due to damages from flood and other electrical repairs to equipment, control gates and other items covers flood work in Madison county services to equipment in both counties of the district. That bill amounts to $7857.

Extra Labor Cost

The remaining major item is $17,547 for extra labor and overtime hours paid for flood control work in St. Clair County.

Meanwhile, Ebersold said, the levee district is fighting three major sewer breaks for which temporary pumping and repairs will cost another $335,000.

The latest of these is an apparent break in the 84-inch stormwater line that carries drainage from the city of Madison to the Madison pumping station just inside the main levee near the Granite City Army Depot.

A large washout about 50 feet long which Ebersold said could result only from a collapse in the big sewer line was discovered last week on the Depot grounds, about 300 yards east of the pumping station.

Estimate $125,000 cost The report said pumping costs and repairs to this section will cost a minimum of $100 per foot or about $125,000. The other two major breaks were discovered July 19 on the Cahokia - Centerville - Alorton sanitary trunk line in Centerville township near the levee. The estimated cost of this district's sewerage treatment plant on Route 3, Ebersold said continued use of the treatment plant has been maintained by temporarily pumping sewage around the breaks.

"These lines have collapsed with the result that there is no possible way for the sanitary sewage to reach the plant unless it is pumped by the district," Ebersold's report said, adding that "it is a physical impossibility to determine at this time the extent of the damage to this sewer system . . . it is contemplated that emergency pumping of these points on this sewer system will be required until such time that permanent repairs can be made. The estimated cost of this pumping will be in the neighborhood of $115,000 for each break, or a total of $230,000."

McKinley Bridge Traffic Down

Average daily vehicular traffic crossing the Venice road McKinley bridge declined again during July to 8339 vehicles, compared to average daily traffic of 8880 during the month of June, Bridge Manager Henry McMullen reported to the Venice city council during regular meeting Friday night.

Total number of vehicles crossing the bridge last month was 264,735, or 433 more than used the span in June. The July report, however, covered 31 days of traffic while the June report was for 30 days.

A total of 36,125 vehicles crossed the bridge during the first week of July, compared to 61,146 during the first week of June, the report showed. Other weekly traffic figures, compared with June traffic in parentheses, are: Second week, 60,888 (60,985); Third week, 59,182 (62,408); Fourth week, 60,970 (60,458); Last three days in July, 27,579 compared to last two days of June, 15,405; Total 264,735 (260,402).

Acceptance of the bridge traffic report and approval of routine bills was the only official business to come before the council which also met July 25. The council's next regular meeting will be Aug. 15.

Lawn & Garden

WAYNE B. SIEFERT
Extension Ornamental Horticulturist
for St. Clair and Madison Counties

What's Happening to Grass
Rains and hot weather are causing clumps of dead grass to appear in lawns.

Most of the dead clumps are the summertime effects of melting-out disease in bluegrass. Hot weather and frequent rains can start the fire of disease that may destroy large areas of your lawn. Melting-out is the sudden fading out of small areas and gradual browning. The symptoms are similar to drought, but begin after rain and wet weather. Close examination shows clumps of rotting grass without the occasional green shoot where drought occurs.

Lawn webworm injury to turf can produce brown areas in turf too. The worms produced checked-out grass and loose straw.

Watering helps grass to recover from webworm but helps the fungus to kill the grass when melting-out is the cause. The disease creates a forest fire when frequent watering and hot weather continues.

Control depends on identification. Avoid watering if melting-out is present. If drought does occur, then deep water once every week. Continue to cut tall. When frequent rains occur, treat with a turf fungicide. Most garden centers have spray-on materials for this problem or granular mixtures to use in your lawn spreader.

Note About Chiggers
Newer repellents like Dett make picnics and walks more fun by preventing a problem with chiggers.

Chiggers have a tough time when you spray or rub Dett repellent on cuffs, collars, socks and exposed skin. Even with repellents chiggers may find an unprotected area unless you promptly change clothes and take a shower.

Usually the bath and soap kills most of the chiggers but you may still notice some itching. Immediately treat the area with an antipruritic to kill the chiggers. Itching will probably continue for sometime after the treatment.

Poisonous Bees
If you are severely poisoned by a bee sting you can be treated in advance.

Everyone develops some reaction to a bee sting but few are so sensitive they become allergic and require medical aid. If you are one of those people who can be hospitalized by a bee sting you can be treated in advance.

Local doctors treat this allergy problem with a series of treatments to develop resistance. Once the treatments are complete you will be more secure from a dangerous reaction and more comfortable on hikes and contacts with nature.

Fall Tent Caterpillar
Colonies of fall tent caterpillars are appearing on wild cherries, birch, sweet gum and ash.

If you want to stop this ugly pest you need to check each tree for developing colonies. You will easily notice the slight webbing of a few leaves or the tip of one twig.

While the insects are young and the web is small you can easily control the colony with carbaryl. One spray application to wet the web and nearby leaves will be adequate.

When the webs are large you can get better control when you spray over the web before you tear.

A late season spraying when the worms are large is not too successful. The web is nearly waterproof and the worms are resistant to the spray. Tearing over the web before you spray or burning may be your only control.

Roses in the Doldrums
Hot weather has rose plants in the summer-doldrums.

When Black Spot disease develops a rose planting becomes mostly stems and weak twigs. Hot weather always creates a summertime slump. Roses thrive in cool spring and fall weather with cool evenings and warm days.

Black Spot disease is severe this year due to the rainy weather and high humidity. Black Spot develops as a small dark blotch and soon causes the leaf to drop off. When the summer doldrums and the disease both occur rose growing can be discouraging.

Black Spot disease spreads during rains. Several days later the blotch appears and the leaf begins to turn yellow. Once the blotch appears the fungus on the infected leaf cannot be controlled. Weekly sprays with Phaltan, Manco or Zineb will prevent infection of new leaves. Spray before rains. Even if the chemical is washed off during the rain it will prevent the disease from spreading. If it rains every day you need to spray two or three times to be safe.

Systemic rose fertilizers do a nice job of controlling insects but do not control this disease.

Black Spot is more severe on some varieties than others. If you gradually eliminate these susceptible plants and plant resistant varieties the spraying and summertime doldrums will not be discouraging.

Light pruning in early August to remove some of the long shoots will produce better shape without spoiling your fall flowers. Prune out the weak wood to a sturdy bud or side branch.

Regular spraying and fall rains will cure the doldrums to produce new growth and handsome flowers.

Crops Grow Rapidly

Corn and soybeans made rapid growth during hot, humid weather the past week. Crops average good throughout the county, with many fields in excellent condition and others very poor.

Harold Rapp, Edwardsville, notes silks on field corn are unusually long this year. He picked two ears of corn in the blister stage with silks nine inches long measuring from the end of the ear.

Red clover may make a good seed crop this year. Pastures are in excellent condition, and much of the second cutting of alfalfa hay is in the barn.

Soybeans are setting many blooms. Several farmers have been reporting volunteer corn and cutting jimson weeds and cocklebur weeds in their bean fields. Others continued to cultivate late planted soybeans.

Some late-planted soybeans in wet fields are near a total loss due to severe wet problems. Corn is at a critical stage of growth from 10 days before to 20 days after tasseling. Pollination takes place during the latter part of that stage. Conditions for pollination have been good so far.

This has been a good year to identify surface drainage problems in individual fields. Surface drainage can remove excess water from flat or gently sloping areas where the water flows too slowly through the soil to provide adequate drainage.

The need for drainage depends on the slope and the smoothness of the surface. Flatness means that excess water flows more too slowly. Depressions and barriers result in excess water being impounded. Depressions and barriers result in excess water being impounded.

Urges Clearance of GI Education Papers

Recipients of veterans' GI education checks are urged by VA Manager John B. Naser of the Chicago Regional Office to see that all of their necessary certificates and papers are cleared so that education checks can be sent out on time this fall.

Naser said past experience has proved delay would be reduced considerably if veterans and schools did their part of the paper work—and did it on time.

If the veteran who was in college last semester followed instructions and returned his Certificate of Attendance at the end of his last term, he has nothing more to do before his checks start arriving this fall.

The college registrar, however, must return through also, and return the completed enrollment certification to the VA.

Any veteran who failed to return his attendance certification he should do so immediately, and if the certification has been lost he should contact the VA office that issued it to him.

Naser said veterans enrolling for the first time or who have changed his college or program must be certain they have obtained a proper Certificate of Eligibility from VA; must submit this certificate to the college registrar; and registrars must return the completed certificate to the VA.

Normally payment for September and October is combined in the first check mailed to veterans in November.

Grasshoppers in cornfields, fence rows, and field road areas are very effectively controlled by toxophene at 1 1/2 pounds per acre.

Grasshoppers are numerous in occasional hay fields and heavy along some roadsides, ditch banks, and fence rows in Madison county. Most of the eggs should have hatched by now. Hot, dry weather is favorable to grasshopper development.

If grasshoppers are numerous, spray immediately before they have a chance to migrate to corn and soybeans.

Take Time to Plan Picnics

Picnic foods should be easy to prepare, easy to carry and easy to eat. And with good planning, you can also make them nutritious and economical.

Plan outdoor meals as you do other meals—around the basic four food groups: meat, milk and dairy products, vegetables and fruits, and bread and cereals.

You may follow these suggestions: Carefully packed food will keep in good condition until eating time.

Salad greens and raw vegetables should be washed, patted dry and put into containers or plastic bags to keep them crisp.

Cooled meats should be cooled thoroughly before being packed if the meal is to be delayed for several hours. A thermos bag is ideal for packing carefully wrapped meat. Or use several layers of newspaper to keep the wrapped meat cool.

Wrap sandwiches individually. Pack cookies and cake closely in a box to prevent movement which might cause the food to crumble while being carried.

You can avoid it, don't take foods such as potato salad and cream sauces and fillings on a picnic. Such foods spoil rapidly, especially under picnic conditions, and can cause food poisoning.

Compile a checklist of needed "extras" and post it near your packing center to be sure you don't forget these items: cooking, serving and eating utensils; condiments such as salt and pepper; paper towels for hand towels or pot holders; tablecloth and napkins; newspapers for grocery bags for hand towels or pot holders; tablecloth and napkins; newspapers for grocery bags for wrapping soiled dishes and utensils to take home.

Medicine Cabinet Check
If you're a typical housewife, chances are you have been intending to give the medicine cabinet a good housecleaning but never seem to get the job done.

This chore deserves careful attention periodically. Many medications become stronger or weaker as they age. So throw away medicines that have been around a long time.

If the label on a container is badly stained or missing, don't trust your memory to identify the drug and dosage. Remember that label information, directions and warnings all safeguard your health.

Clean your medicine cabinet and dispose of old medicines in a safe way. Flush the contents down the drain, and rinse the containers before discarding them.

Store medicines away from excessive heat, cold and light to help retard deterioration. And be doubly sure to keep your medicines out of the reach of small children.

Visitors to the display of 11 old-model cars were asked to cast a ballot for the exhibit that interested them most and they gave the honor to Gene Wilson, 1835 Market street, owner and exhibitor of a 1923 model Maxwell.

A total of 236 ballots was cast by persons visiting the display between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. with 82 votes favoring Wilson's Maxwell.

All types of old-model autos, many of them in better condition than some of the later models on the streets today, made up the exhibit. They included models ranging from a 1909 Model T Ford, which had no windshield or windows, to a 1939 model LaSalle.

In addition to Wilson's winning exhibit, cars exhibited in the show included a 1934 Chevrolet truck entered by Schermer's Market; a 1939 LaSalle entered by Vernon Guebert, 4720 Vincent avenue; a 1931 Ford and a 1938 Buick displayed by Robert Serin, 1927 Third street, Madison; a 1936 Chevrolet owned by Robert Schaffhauser of Belleville; a 1930 Chevrolet entered by David Brewer, 2824 Sunset drive.

A 1924 Pierce-Arrow owned by James Hundley of Dupo, a 1930 Ford coup with rumble seat entered by David Sharp of Cahokia, a 1928 Model T Ford owned by Peter Daphus of Cahokia.

Plans were made to hold the next divisional meeting in Mt. Vernon on Oct. 5. A buffet luncheon was served by auxiliary members from the Quad-City post.

Both defendants were released after Childress posted a total of $600 in bonds and the Cave woman posted $300. The pair was arrested while driving over the McCambridge viaduct by Madison police who had been informed by a Madison resident that a man had taken a bicycle off his porch.

Police said a description of the stolen bike fit that of one of two bicycles found in the trunk of the car.
